From the Vice-Chancellor

I am extremely happy to pen this column for the Azhagu Newsletter for the first time after assuming office as the 10th Vice-Chancellor of Alagappa University. This citadel of higher learning and research, initiated and carved out by the public-spirited philanthropist Vallal Alagappan, stands as a lasting monument to his zeal and zest for serving the people of this region. The spectacular growth and development of this institution after it became a State University in 1985 speaks volumes of the tireless efforts of the successive Vice-Chancellors, the Registrars, other Officials, the Faculty and the Administrative Staff with the unstinted support of the Central and State Governments, which have already been well documented in the annals of the University.

I assumed office at a significant time when Alagappa University has attained a high watermark in higher education. It is a well-known fact that my predecessors have done commendable work that brought several distinctions, accolades and awards including the conferment of A+ Grade with a CGPA of 3.64 in the recent NAAC Assessment and the Autonomy to the University from the UGC-MHRD. With a host of achievements in teaching, research and extension activities, it has secured a place of pride among higher education institutions at the national-level. The Founder's long felt dream to a large extent is realized, but it is a small step in the long journey.

With the continuous rising of expectations, after many laurels won by the University, I am aware of my responsibility of taking the institution to further heights, which could be accomplished with the fullest co-operation and dedicated work of the entire University Community in the days to come. Now, more and more thrust should be bestowed on socially relevant research and every student should be encouraged to come up with innovative ideas and richer insights.

On the eve of this new academic year 2018-2019, my greetings and best wishes to all the Faculty, Students and Administrative Staff of the University.

Alagappa University is one among the top-tier universities in the country owing to good work done in the fields of Biological Sciences, Energy, Biosensors, Bioinformatics, Arts, Management and Education and its new leaps are in the fast emerging areas of Earth Sciences, Remote Sensing and Geographic Information System Technologies. Now, due to rich reserves in its knowledge bank, Alagappa University has envisioned to contribute to the grass-root level rural developmental planning.

To accomplish this, the University has initiated the process for establishing a “Rural Informatics Centre (RICE)” at the University. The prime objectives of RICE are 1) to create GIS-aided computerized village- based informatics models for various districts of Tamil Nadu on natural resources, physical resources and human resources with options to retrieve and download the above information village-wise, block-wise, taluk-wise, district-wise and user demanded query-wise in two or three clicks of the computer, benefitting the planners and administrators towards faster and precise grass-root level planning; 2) to develop rural informatics models on specific domains and sectors of natural resources, physical resources and human resources, as per the time requirement and again modify it according to rising demands of the region and nation; 3) to conduct training programmes and workshops for the planners, administrators and scientists on rural informatics and 4) to offer courses on GIS for the aspiring students.

These Rural Informatics models will have special and advanced options to call and download all the information from the computer on all the themes either for a village or a block or a taluk or for the whole district or on a particular theme in pictorial, statistical and tabular formats.

For example, if the user wants to see the general map of a district, he has to open the menu in the computer and click thematic maps and click the name of the particular map, it will be displayed in the computer. Instead, if one wants to see any data, say the water bodies of a particular block in a district, then he can click natural resources menu, block name, water bodies, the name of the block, then all the water bodies of the particular block will be displayed. Similarly, if the planner wants to see the tanks that have to be desilted, he can click 2 or 3 desired menus and then the computer will display the particular village along with the tanks and its status of siltation. From the model, he can get further details on perimeter, volume of silt, etc. Similarly, all the maps can be colour codified, enlarged, reduced, distances can be measured between any two points for laying roads or canals, etc. Similarly disasters vulnerability and environmental status from the Village to District levels can be retrieved. In the same way, all the physical resources (rural housing, electricity, health, education, agriculture, etc.) can be retrieved spontaneously from the computer. For example, in the area of health, by clicking the health sector, one can see the village-wise distribution of primary health centres and other different types of hospitals, distribution of different categories of doctors, distribution of medical facilities in various categories of hospitals, distribution of medical support staff, the pictorial information on the non-availability of health facility, the villages from where the people will have to travel for 0-3 kms. or 3-6 kms. etc. to avail the nearest hospital facility, etc. Similarly, the education data, the agricultural data and the data on rural housing, transport facility, etc. can be spontaneously downloaded from the computer in pictorial, statistical and tabular forms.

In the same way, data on the population and demography and the issues of different age segment of the rural populace, issues related to women, status of women empowerment, self-help group, employability, distribution of otherwise-challenged people, etc. can be retrieved from the village to district levels. In the same way, if one desires to set up an industry in a district, then his requirements on manpower, water availability, transport, etc., can be given as a conditional query and the model will search and identify the suitable village location to set up the factory.

To start with, Alagappa University under the Rural Informatics Centre (RICE) would launch a model project on Sivaganga (Rural Informatics of Sivaganga – Project RUSI). In this mission, all the possible departments from Sciences, Arts, Management and Education would be involved and students would be utilized for data collection. The well-designed village- based questionnaire will be given to the students during the Village Placement Programme of the University for collection of data.

INTERNATIONAL DAY OF YOGA CELEBRATED

A mega Yoga Demonstration was organized on 21.06.2018 as part of the International Day of Yoga celebrated at Alagappa University, Karaikudi. The faculty, students and administrative staff, numbering about 1200 participated in the event. It was jointly organized by the Centre for Yoga Education and NSS of Alagappa University.

Vice-Chancellor Prof. N.Rajendran while inaugurating the event referred to the efficacy of Yoga. He said that the art of yoga is an invaluable contribution of ancient India and it symbolizes the great ancient wisdom of India. The great exponents of Yoga tradition Patanjali and Thirumoolar contributed to the well-being of humanity by imparting Yoga Sutras. Unlike other western aerobic fast-paced exercises, the Indian system of Yoga advocates bodily movements of slow pace that bring harmony, balance and peace to the body and the mind, paving the way for the elevation of the soul. He added that Swami Vivekananda's wake-up call to the youth of the country to build "muscles of iron and nerves of steel" symbolically represented the need to develop the union of body, mind and soul to bring about equanimity. The University proposes to impart Yoga training to the new students during the orientation programme to be held shortly, he added. In today's world of hurry and flurry, Yoga is, indeed, a great stress-buster and the advocacy of the practice of Yoga will be a great panacea in the strife-torn world.

The international Olympian Padmashri V.Baskaran, Captain of the Indian Hockey Team, which won the World Cup in 1980 was the guest of honour at the event. He said that yoga helped the people to keep their hearts in a healthy condition. He stated that players participating in games strain their nerves and muscles and can get relaxed by practising yoga for a period of 10 minutes and that would keep them fit for the next day's play. The other modes of relaxation like swimming etc. takes 24 hours to soothe the nerves and the body, but yoga affords relaxation in a few minutes. From his own experience he added that "this is the secret that every player should learn". Yoga really rejuvenates and warms up the players and keep them ready to play the next day's game with vigour. He stated that the celebration of yoga day has created an awareness among the people of the world about the immense benefits of yoga and the world owes a debt of gratitude to India for this invaluable gift. The real possession of a human being, he added, is health and "this property" has to be protected by the practice of yoga by everyone.

A special yoga demonstration was displayed by C.Kamatchi, a Gold Medal Winner of the World Yoga Championship held in Dubai and that won the applause of everyone present at the event.

Prof.H.Gurumallesh Prabu, Registrar, Alagappa University, welcomed the gathering. Dr.P.Srinivasan, NSS Co-ordinator, proposed a vote of thanks. Dr.S.Saroja, Co-ordinator of the Centre for Yoga Education, was the organizer of the event.

Field Visit to Dharmapuri Archaeological Museum

A team of enthusiastic History Professors from Alagappa University, Karaikudi, Government Arts College, Dharmapuri and Thonnam Historical Research Centre, Dharmapuri, made a field visit to Archaeological Museum at Dharmapuri with a view to exploring facts related to the ancient Kuruman nomadic tribal community's life-style such as their migration routes, culture and tradition and occupations. The team keenly studied the historical finds, remnants and artefacts brought to light by the spade of archeologists during the excavations affording an opportunity to the scholars to learn about the ancient Kuruman culture. Collections are currently displayed at the Museum. It is to be noted that Dharmapuri and Krishnagiri districts in Tamil Nadu are known for the ancient archaeological sites and this region was popularly known as "Thagadoor" during the Sangam Period. References to Thagadoor abound in ancient Tamil literary works.

The team also visited the hilly areas adjoining Chennachathiram situated 5 kilometres away from Kurubarahalli on Krishnagiri-Hosur highway. The researchers located the ancient Kuruman's settlements where they could trace the stone walls of their homesteads and the worn-out woollen thread-making structures and scrap pieces of iron implements used by them. They also found places exclusively structured for rearing live-stock. The memorials and historical sites indicated the rich culture of the migrant nomadic Kuruman tribal community. Though Kurumans were a nomadic tribe, they had documented their history through some of the memorials.

The team members included Dr. K. Krishnamoorthy, Head i/c, Department of History, Alagappa University, Karaikudi, Prof. S. Chandrasekar, Government Arts College, Dharmapuri, Prof. V. Gunasekaran, Alagappa Government Arts College, Karaikudi and Thiru. Nagaraj, ICF, Chennai and Thiru. Kirubanantham, Chennai and the post graduate students of Dharmapuri Government Arts

DEPARTMENT OF FINE ARTS

World Music Day Celebrated

On behalf of the Department of Fine Arts, the World Music Day was celebrated on 22.06.2018 in the Seminar Hall of the Central Library of Alagappa University. Prof. N. Rajendran, Vice-Chancellor, in his inaugural-cum-presidential address, brought home the significance of music in the day-to-day life of the people. He said that it is comparatively easier to acquire any branch of knowledge than to cultivate the fine arts such as music and dance. It does require individual taste and talent. This day, 21st of June, every year is celebrated the world over as World Music Day for the purpose of spreading the importance of music and also for honouring the doyens of music.

Music has the power to soften and soothe the minds of the people and has an important role to play in the development of the society. Fertile imagination and creative faculty are essential for the growth of literature to which music and painting belong. Music transcends barriers of culture and climes, races and religions, creeds and isms.

In the Indian context, there is concrete textual evidence that King Mahendra Varman of Pallava dynasty was well acquainted with the comprehensive knowledge of music. That is why, history states, he was called Sangeethana Jaathi. During the golden age of Guptas coins were minted and circulated with the engraving of the Veena being played. The excavations at Mohenjo-Daro brought to light artefacts like bronze idols of women in the dancing posture. These idols date back to three thousand five hundred years before Christ. Through preservation and propagation of music, we become worthy sons of the soil in preserving our tradition and culture.

Dr. P. Natrajan, Principal, Kalaikaveri Fine Arts College, Trichy, in his special address made a special mention that God is the Personification of Music and that the seven musical notations (sapta swaranga) have descended from Nature and also referred to the curative power of “ananda bhairavi” raga in bringing down blood pressure and in reducing stress. There are enough evidences in Tamil Bhakthi Literature that a recitation of the verses from Thevaram might serve as a therapy bringing relief to people from illness and ailment. He also referred to the Pythagorean concept of the existence of universe due to the music of the spheres.

Prof. TR. Gurumoorthy, Finance officer i/c offered felicitations. The students of the Fine Arts Department performed a scintillating musical recital. Prof. P.Dharmaligam welcomed the gathering earlier and at the end Dr. M.S.P Sarala proposed a vote of thanks.

In India, the National Day against Drug Abuse is being observed aptly on the birth anniversary of Mahatma Gandhi i.e. on 2nd October every year. Some youngsters when suffering from mental depression and stress cultivate the bad habit of consuming drugs that might give them a kind of false sensation and temporary relief but land them in serious trouble. Drug addicts who misuse or abuse drugs should be helped to come out of this social evil. He further said that drug abuse spoiled the character of the person concerned and affected his career. It is the duty of every one to help in eradicating drug abuse. Medicines should be taken only as per the prescription of the Doctor. Medicines are only meant for curing diseases and to be taken for a period mentioned by the Doctor.

Continuous use of medicines will lead to addiction and would affect important organs of the body like kidney, lungs, liver etc., Drug abuse affects not only the individual concerned, but affects the family, the society and the nation. He further said that smoking causes 40% of lung cancer. Consumption of alcohol has led to irreparable damage to the society. Visit to Historical Places

The Centre organized a tour to historical place of Kunthukal, Rameswaram, on 21st April 2018. Ms.S.Chellam, Co-ordinator SVHRE motivated the VCC Student Volunteers to participate in the tour in order to pay respect to Swami Vivekananda, who awakened the west to appreciate Indian philosophy, culture and tradition. The participants were members of the VCC from the Department of Special Education, College of Education and Alagappa University Institute of Skill Development.

The team manager Dr. Vasimalai Raja, along with two teaching faculty members -- Dr.G.Sivakumar and Dr.Rajewari – took the volunteers to Kunthukal and A.P.J Abdul Kalam Memorial.

The visit to Vivekananda Memorial Hall was a stimulating experience for the students. It is to be noted that Swami Vivekananda landed here, on his return from Chicago where he delivered a scintillating address at the Parliament of the World's Religions held in 1893.

ECOLOGICAL YOGA

Swami Vivekananda Centre for Higher Research and Education organised a programme titled “Ecological Yoga” as a part of the World Environment Day Awareness Campaign held on 5.6.2018 at Alagappa Model Hr Sec School, Karaikudi. Mr.Rajapandi, Headmaster of the School, welcomed the gathering. In his welcome address he touched upon the concept of “Ecological Yoga” and theme of “World Environment Day”. The celebration of “World Environment day” is being organised to give a human face to environmental issues and enhance political attention and public action. The World Environment Day is hosted every year by different cities with different themes and is commemorated with an international exposition.

Ms.S.Chellam Co-ordinator, SVCHRE, in her presidential address quoted the message of Swami Vivekananda “Make your nerves strong. What we want is muscles of iron and nerves of steel ; the brain and muscles must develop simultaneously”. To develop a strong physique, the environment should be free from different types of pollutions-air pollution, water pollution, noise pollution, etc. Youth must be motivated to improve, to protect and to preserve our environment in order to build a disease - free healthy India. “Ecological yoga awareness campaign” is to bring youth close to Nature, and to bring a change in their attitude towards the present condition of controlling pollution and to think about the hazards created by over - population, global warming and to make them act positively to preserve Nature around them.

Healthy India will help in building a safer and a more prosperous future. Each year, World Environment Day celebration is based on a particular theme proclaimed by the United Nations to make the celebration more effective by encouraging people worldwide to take part in environmental issues across the globe. The theme for the year 2018 is “Beat Plastic Pollution”. Every World Environment Day has a different global host country and India is this year's host country. The focus on the host country helps to highlight the environmental challenges it faces, and supports the efforts to address them.

The Co-ordinator, who explained the word “Yoga”, said that it meant “unity” or “union” and the word has been derived from Sanskrit ‘Yuj’, which means ‘to join’. We can also understand that Yoga is a means of balancing and bringing harmony between Man and Nature. In the Indian context the Vedas, the Upanishads, the Epics and the Puranas focus on reverence for life; and we have been worshiping Nature -- the mountains, the rivers, the plants -- since ancient times. Every deity has its favourite plant and flower - Champak, Jasmine, Lotus, etc. Their association with God makes them sacred. Every deity in the Hindu pantheon has its own vehicle. There is no God, who is not associated with some animal or the other. Siva with Rishaba, Vishnu with Garuda, Brahma with Hamsa, Indra with the Elephant. Even a humble bandicoot finds a patron in Gnanapathi!.

This outlook of ‘living in tune with nature’ is termed as “Ecological Yoga”. Ms.S.Chellam reminded the students that this outlook, this facet of our culture, makes the youth inherit an attitude to appreciate and love flora and fauna of the earth. To preserve the flora and fauna avoid plastics. Once they are aware of Nature’s glory, the youth will preserve the Ecology for the sake of entire humanity.

Then followed an interactive session in which students suggested the ways and means to preserve our Environment. This programme reinforced the “three R’s” of environmental concept (Reduce, Recycle, Reuse). Students and teachers took a pledge to become ‘green’ ambassadors; and adopt environment friendly practices in schools and at home.

At the end of the programme students thanked Alagappa University and the Headmaster for this Ecological Yoga Awareness Programme on the World Environment Day.

Chicago Speech Celebration

Swami Vivekananda Centre for Higher Research and Education Organised the 125th year celebration of Swami Vivekananda’s Chicago Address at Chidambaram Chettiar Hr Sec School, Kottaiyur, Karaikudi on 6.6.2018.

Ms.P.Rajeshwari, HM, in her welcome address, recalled the story of a frog living in a well which was narrated by Swami Vivekananda at the Parliament of Religions at Chicago. Ms. S.Chellam Co-ordinator SVCHR&E, delivered a speech on Vivekananda Address at Chicago, America. She explained that the World’s Parliament of Religions was a part of the World’s Columbian Exposition, to be held in commemoration of the Quadricentennial (four hundredth anniversary) celebration of Columbus’s discovery of America. The objectives of the Parliament were to find common grounds of truth among different religions of the world and to explore what light each religion has afforded or might afford to the enrichment of other religions of the world.

In a hither-to-unheard of style Swami Vivekananda addressed the audience as “Sisters and Brothers” of America. Immediately there was thunderous applause from the mammoth gathering. Seven thousand people rose to their feet to pay their respects and tribute to this great Indian monk. All the subsequent speeches of Swami Vivekananda at the Parliament were listened to with rapt attention, great respect and appreciation. They all had one common theme-universality. While all the delegates to the Parliament spoke of their own religion, Swami Vivekananda spoke of a religion which preached the “spiritual oneness of the whole universe.” Swami Vivekananda spoke on behalf of not only his religion but also for all the religions of the world.

Swami Vivekananda stayed in America and visited many countries - England, Italy etc and his triumphal return to India in 1897 was celebrated in India with great ecstasy. Chicago lecture increased the respect for India and its culture in the comity of nations.

The people of India were afire with enthusiasm to receive him wherever he went. He motivated the people, and calling up them to rise enmasse "My India, arise!" India will be raised, not with the power of the muscle, but with the power of the soul, with the flag of peace and love.

This celebration was followed by an interactive session. Students participated in it with great enthusiasm. A drawing competition was conducted for the students.
